Kyberpass digital signature system wins Identrus spurs

25 September 2001 - Kyberpass reports that its new digital signature messaging system, the Trust Services Gateway, has completed interoperability testing and is certified as Identrus Compliant.

The package offers an integrated set of system services that can be called by a merchant's business applications to request trust and value-added services from their financial institution using the bank-backed Identrus trust system.

Available today, the software is supported on Windows 2000 Server and Solaris 2.6 and later.

Kyberpass says that the server-based architecture of the Gateway offers financial institutions superior return on investment and accelerated time-to-market for merchants.
